Height, depth, and breadth have been chosen for our yearbook theme, representing Cooley and her functions. Height has been achieved in learning, breadth in living, and depth in location.

Those who have come to Cooley to achieve academic heights have chosen well; the elevations are here. Through our honor program, varied courses, faculty, and teaching aids, students who come to Cooley find many opportunities to increase their knowledge. Even those who approach education with less serious intent find they too attain new stature, continually pressured by the competition of a climbing curve. Everyone soon finds it impossible to retract from school life. The constant competition of the others around them finally compels them up and into the school functions.

For the freshmen, broadening their sphere of knowledge is no easy task. Before claiming status as a Cooley student, community and family life have pretty firmly moulded the students' habits. But soon the bewildered freshman finds that the converging and unpredictable demands of group togetherness at Cooley shatter his former living patterns. No more is he sheltered and prodded along. He is pushed into a vast world of new things, new prospectives, and increasing responsibility to carry himself along as an adult.

Through knowledge gained and status attained, the student can now look forward toward the extra-curricular activities. He has vast opportunities to delve beyond living and learning. Participation in such activities as sports, various clubs, music, and art tend to deepen his experience, giving a new dimension to his personality and life which has been shaped and tempered by the school.

In conclusion, through the years of hard work and rewarding efforts, the Cooley student has gained height, depth, and breadth in his learning and living. With this, he is now prepared for a bright and fruitful future ahead.

The overall aim of sound education is to provide a well-balanced social and academic calendar for all students; thus, social activities are considered important in molding a student's individuality. The numerous and diversified special events in which Cooleyites have participated during the past year have contributed greatly to their personality growth in all dimensions — height, breadth, and depth.

The Sports Council presented the first dance of the year, "Mystery Madness." Next came Y-Teens' "Witches' Walk," followed by "Fantasma," which was presented at the Light Guard Armory through the joint efforts of Cooley, Cody, Mackenzie, and Redford, "Swiss Holiday," sponsored by Lancer Hi-Y and the Student Council, completed the dance schedule for 1961. Not to be forgotten are the winter prom, held at quaint Greenfield Village, "Be Mine," presented by Eagle and Lancer Hi-Y's, and the March record hop given by the Sports Council. "April Mist," sponsored by Y-Teens, and two other club dances were the last entries on the dance agenda for the spring semester.

Quality in the field of music has for years been a tradition at Cooley. Our fine choral and instrumental groups awed audiences at the Christmas and spring concerts with the beauty and unity of their offerings.

Scattered throughout the season were the semi-annual 12B plays, the senior-faculty basketball game, and many other events which lent variety to the students' social life.

Various trips were also featured during the school year. The annual Football Trip to Ann Arbor in November gave students a chance to view Michigan and Iowa in action. In January, juniors travelled to Grayling for the Snow Trip. Two student tours were planned for Easter vacation. One was the Senior Trip, in which twelfth graders were able to visit dazzling New York City and historic Washington, D. C. The other was a tour "south of the border, down Mexico way," where visitors saw ancient pyramids, centuries-old museums, and native market places. These four trips fittingly climaxed the year's well-planned special events.

In the fast-moving pace set by twentieth century living, getting along with people has become a necessary art. At Cooley, students are encouraged to master that art through participation in social activities, thereby achieving their maximum personality dimensions.

Ursala Eichenlaub

Ursula Eichenlaub, Cooley's exchange student from Germany, has achieved great height in learning by her stay in the United States. Not only from the educational standpoint but from the social point, Ursala has learned many things about our customs and way of living that she will not only keep to herself but corry back to her friends in Germany. By participating on the Cooley girl's swim team and being an active member in the Student Council, Ursala has also located depth in Cooley's activities. Returning to Germany this summer, Ursala will have acquired a breath in living in a new country, meeting new people, and seeing new sights.

Exchange Students Gain Height in Learning from AFS

Hailing from Norway is John Eilertsen, Cooley's second exchange student, Finding time for the Student Council and Cardinal Hi-Y was John's way of starting to locate himself in the height of learning at Cooley. Besides the clubs, John also went on the Snow Trip and on the many skling outings during the winter. Living with Tom Arnstrong's family, John acquired breath in living not only with a new family but in entirely new and strange surroundings. Graduating in June, John will return to his homeland, Norway, with tremendous knowledge and experience gained from post experiences.

Saturnalia, an ancient Roman holiday, was celebrated with great festivity in December at a banquet attended by Latin students and alumni. After a fine "cena", the guests and alumni were entertained by dramatizations of ancient myths in lively Latin, evidencing the fact that Latin is by no means a dead language.

At Mercy College, before the members of the Michigan Classical Association, Mr. Riddering's Latin 7 class presented the story "King Midas and the Musical Contest" adapted in Latin for the stage by Gerald Browne. The story, in which Midas (Bob Lanning) foolishly acclaimed the music of Pan (Nanci Furman) better than that of Apollo (Bob Garder) and received dankey's ears for his ignorance, caused much laughter and applause. Also contributing to the success of the play were Pete Perona, as the barber; Dan Darnell, portraying Aelous, god of the winds; John Williams, as the judge, Tmolus; and a group of nymphs and shepherds

As a result of several Latin oriented activities, in which great enthusiasm was show by the participants, Cooley students organized a Latin Club during the past year. In a broadening spirit of liberalism, this club has no president or secretary; instead, Mary Staughton, Don Walters, Barbara Bumford, and Geri Ouchi were elected to serve as senior consul, junior consul, scribe, and quaestor. From the beginning the meetings have proved to be very interesting. During the programs, skits and plays were presented, monologues were given, and Latin Games were played. As a part of their activities, the club also wrote and published a newspaper, containing articles and news tips. In attempting to gain knowledge about the customs and culture of the Romans, the club also visited the archaeological museum of the University of Michigan and heard specialized speakers at the Detroit Institute of Arts.

Mr. Lindsay takes a dip after Cooley's swim team achieved the city championship

Pictured above is Cooley's 1961-62 west side and city champion swim team. This team, the third consecutive metropolitan league champion squad from Cooley, by no means had life easy. To capture the west side crown, the Cardinals were subjected to two one-point and three two-point victories. As if this were not enough, the team made a spectacular come-from-behind finish in the city championship to squeeze out dual meet champion Denby by a half a point, 50½ to 50.

The Principal

As principal of Cooley High School, Mr. Ben 5. Chinitz has the responsibility for all forms of instructional leadership including living, learning, and broadening the student's educational opportunities. It is also his duty to establish the school policies, change them for the better, and make sure that they are still in accordance with the requirements of the Board of Education. As is usually found in a change in administration, Mr. Chinitz has introduced several ideas which considerable research has indicated to be consistent with and of high value to the standards of Cooley. These innovations have strengthened our classification in the North Central Association and maintained our position within the twenty-five Detroit high schools. A warm feeling of friendliness pervades throughout his office, as he deals with individual and school problems. This friendly encouragement and wise counseling has meant a great deal to both the faculty and student body. Mr. Chinitz has also accomplished a great deal in his work with the Cooley Parents' Club and other social school-connected groups. He has by his actions indicated that he has Cooley's best interests at heart.

Working mainly in the field of student counseling, Mr. Richard O'Rourke is constantly helping the students to new heights in learning and more depth in understanding themselves. In addition, his duties include sponsoring the June class, enrolling new students, and supervising aptitude tests Although having been at Cooley only a short time, he is no stranger to us. Mr. O'Rourke taught here and spansored the school newspaper in 1956. We are fortunate in having Mr. O'Rourke. We hope that his acquaintance with the school and the routine here, plus the many friends he returns to, will make his stay pleasant and profitable. It certainly will be for us

The Assistant Principals

Although the principal is the final authority in all matters, he delegates many responsibilities to the assistant principals which they in turn divide between themselves. The duties placed upon Mr. Alfred Meyers concern the students and faculty in the breadth of everyday living. His time is mostly consumed in the sponsoring of the January class, assigning special duties to the teachers, and many other administrative problems. Although having many duties, the assistant principals' most important job is to create a desire in the student to continue his education and bring greater breadth and purpose into his living.

Heights of Learning

Cooley's eight counselors have many responsibilities in helping to mold the future citizens of our country. They help their students attain greater heights in learning by advising them to choose subjects they feel correspond to their needs and abilities. They also prepare the pupils for breadth in living by helping them adjust to school life and preparing them for the next level of learning. In addition to height and breadth, depth in location is given to students by their counselors. Molding their personalities and assisting them in selecting the proper occupation is another important job of the counselor.

The responsibilties of Cooley's counselors do not end with the students' years in high school. Many times the records of former students are referred to by counselors for recommendations for college, jobs, and scholarships. Although it is not an easy job, there is not one more rewarding, for Cooley counselors have helped a great deal with providing our community, our city, and our nation with trustworthy citizens and future leaders.

Miss Ferguson teaches quicker ways of reading in Reading Improvement

A thorough knowledge and understanding of the English language is the goal of the student interested in climbing the full heights of education. This goal is reached by hard work and determination to master the bosic fundamentals and then be able to use them intelligently.

It is also the ambition of the student to become acquainted with the English authors and poets and to read and appreciate their literary works so as to gain more breadth in life. The ability to understand and interpret literature increases one's vocabulary and knowledge, thus adding depth to the meaning of their writing.

Being able to use a language intelligently is the sign of an educated person, and just as this is the goal of every student, it is also the goal of the English Department to help them achieve it.

The Science Department

Cooley's Science Department under the direction of Mr. Harvey Brand oids the student in gaining knowledge about everything from the depth of the ocean, to the height of the sky, to the breadth of the universe.

Today's changing world demands that a student strive to achieve academic heights and to be intelligently prepared in the world of science. Biology, chemistry, and physics lay the groundwork for a better understanding of ourselves and the world we live in. The special sciences, phsiography and physiology, allow greater acquisition of knowledge about the geography of our earth and about the structure of the human body. All of these courses give the students the opportunity to study everything from the anatomy of plants and animals to the physical properties of the earth. Thus the students gain depth in their knowledge in all aspects of life. And thus the Science Department lays the foundations of the basic sciences which adds to the growth of Cooley students.

These courses are adapted to the personal needs of each student according to his ability, and to the requirements of the vocation he might choose for his later life. New ideas, equipment, and teaching techniques are always being introduced in the department to satisfy the needs and interests of Cooley students, and these methods will be the very foundation for their careers in coming years.

The depth of interest in mathematics at Cooley extends beyond the regular class periods. The Math Club boasts a membership of twenty-five eager students who meet each week to delve deep into the world of numbers and to achieve a better understanding and knowledge of the subject.

Mathematics plays an important part in the lives of Cooley students - academically, in the great heights of classroom learning; socially, in the breadth of living and working; and intellectually in the depth of the feeling of achievement.

How to find a job and be successful in a competitive business world is a goal that the Commercial Department strives for. Such courses as typing, shorthand, retailing, bookkeeping, and business law deepen the capacity of the student to locate himself in the business world and give him the breadth of experience needed for the competition. Under the skillful guidance of its department head, Mr. Harvey Meyer, students learn the importance of accuracy and precision, both very important qualities in the business world. But the commercial courses are not just for students who plan business careers. All well-rounded college preparatory students will wish to take typing and notehond to put themselves at an advantage in college. Thus, the Commercial Department caters to the needs of commercial, general, and college preparatory students.

The Vocational Department

The very heights of learning are attainable in the Vocational Department. Its curriculum ranges from highly technical work to home economics which are both very useful in everyday life. Even the pupil who is completely disinterested in schoolwork itself, is bound to find something to his liking in the department curricula.

The "lone wolf" would find himself very bored with the courses offered by the Vocational Department, because in almost every class, the art of working together is both necessary and important.

Unlike many of the duller academic subjects, the classes of this department offer more pleasure than drudgery. In courses of this type, a student can learn to appreciate school with a more pleasant outlook and he may also learn to work more willingly.

In addition to the educational opportunities of the Vocational curricula, many organizations and activities stem from this department. A majority of these clubs delve into the student's home life and thus correlate his school and home activities. This familiarity builds confidence in a pupil. This type of instruction helps to mold him into a well-rounded person. The many courses of this curricula not only provide knowledge and pleasure for today, but also experience in working together for tomorrow.

A Cooley student's life may attain new heights in learning, breadth in living, and greater depth as an individual by taking any of the courses available in the Fine Arts Department.

By choosing any of these courses offered, in either the Music or Art Departments, the student is given an opportunity to express his personality while developing individual talents. His life gains greater depth as he participates in the many activities.

When the members of the two departments combine annually to present the Spring and Christmas Concerts, each student puts forth enough effort to attain new heights in his learning. These heights are reached as the artistic, instrumental, and vocal skills learned are performed

The creativeness and school participation is encouraged in the Fine Arts Department through its many courses in the background and basic principles of the arts, it is also responsible in giving to the Cooley student a sense of belonging as he broadens his life outside of family and community activities.

New and greater heights, breadth, and depth are easily obtained in the Cooley Fine Arts Department If the student is willing to practice his skills and put forth a sincere effort in attaining these goals.

The Health Education Department

Reserve Basketball

Regardless of what academic heights a student achieves while in high school, health education is an essential part of the breadth in his life.

Learning to work well with others is an important step in the broadening of his experience. Without this ability, success in life is doubtful. Just as participating in a sport requires one to work along with others, so does everyday living. In each case a person becomes a teammate working together with others to reach an ultimate goal of victory. A Cooley student readily becomes accustomed to this feeling of teamwork because competitive sports and exercises are everyday phases of learning to widen his scope of knowledge.

When a Cooley student has reached the objectives of the Health Education Department, he has attained a height in life that no college degree he may ever receive can give him. He has learned the importance of teamwork and how to utilize it not only in his athletic activities but in everyday life.

Jankers Swim To Victory Once Again

Bill Jennison on the way to a record in the 100-yard butterfly

This year's Cardinal swim team certainly left no thrills to be desired as it went undefeated in league competition, culminating the season with an exciting 50½ to 50 victory over Denby in its third consecutive city championship. Outstanding team balance and an innate ability to rise when the occasion demands it characterized the Cooley Mermen. One, two, and three point victories were not uncommon as the other west side powers, Western, Redford, and Cody were drowned in the Cardinal wake. The tankers, sparked by an All-American and three other All-State swimmers, once again this year brought home to Cooley the rewards of Victory.

Spring Representatives

The Student Council

Cooley's governing body, the Student Council, consists of representatives from each grade, four each from the ninth and tenth grades, and six from the eleventh and twelfth grades. The members are elected by the student body at the beginning of the fall and spring semesters. To be eligible for membership, a student must have a "C" average and must file a petition for membership.

The council plans and sponsors a wide variety of social events. Included in these are "Fantasma," a semi-formal and inter-school dance, and "Swiss Holiday," a Cooley dance

The student council also operates the Used Book Store, and sells tickets to athletic events as well as giving two scholarships each semester and sponsoring "Operation Green," and the clothing drive.

Scholarship, leadership, and service to the school are the character goals that the National Honor Society strives to maintain.

Each semester honor is bestowed on sen ors possessing these high standards in an impressive ceremony conducted by the present N.H.S. members. The new initiates are chosen by their fe low classmates and by members of the faculty Although the prospective members know of their eligibility for the society, they are not sure of their acceptance until the names are announced at the assembly

Members are chosen for the organization by the academic heights they have achieved at Cooley, the depth in being able to estab sh and prove themselves as school and community leaders, and also breadth in ability to give service to other school and ocal organizations. These qualifications are all carefully considered.

Each Christmos time the National Honor Society holds an impressive tea in the school library. All the past members of the chapter as well as the present ones are invited to get together and talk over "old times". Also this past year plans were started to establish a N.H.S. scholarship. Hopes are that this fund will be available in the very near future. Besides carrying on their own activities, the Cooley N.H.S. inducted the Trojan Chapter of the National Society at Henry Ford High School.

As more stress than ever before is being placed on rising to new heights in education and character advancement, the hope is that a desire for wider achievement is stimulated by the prospect of acquiring membership into this honor society.

Black Hi- U

Cooley parents self cokes to thirsty students at Black's annual donce.

The main purpose of all of Cooley's Hi-Y's is to create and maintain a high standard of character and to be a service to the school and community. After one acquires the heights of education, he must learn the important role that working with and helping others plays in the breadth of life. There is no better way to learn this than by experience in a Hi-Y.

In the true spirit of the Christmas season, the members donate money and food each year to give to a needy family in the Detroit area. Deep, meaningful experiences are obtained through fundraising projects, parties, and joint meetings with other Detroit Hi-Ys. The boys climax each year with their annual May dance, "Rhythms in Rose." Each year two representatives are sent to Ann Arbor to the annual Hi-Y convention. In November, representatives are also sent to New York to participate in the United Nations Program.

By participating in this wide range of worth while activities, the boys in Black Hi-Y are delving into the depths of the years to come; for, the things they are learning today will shape and mold their characters for tomorrow.

Cardinal Hi- Y

Explaining the procedures of seleg dance tickets to Tom-Armstrong and John Eilertsen is Dan Dannell.

The purpose of Cooley H-Y's is to create and main toin a high standard of Christian character in the home, school, and community. Cardinal members work hard throughout the year to maintain their purpose. Through their contact with many people, they are gaining valuable experiences in the business world and broadening their sphere and opportunities of the future.

This fall Cardinal sent two representatives to the United Nations in New York where they received a guided tour and a close-up look at the business executed by the organization. With service of the community in mind, Cardinal has also introduced a bill in Michigan's legislature this year compelling manufacturers to install back-up lights on all automobiles.

Cardinal members also enjoy a number of social activities, such as their annual fall hayride and winter skating party. The year's events are highlighted by their annual dance in May.

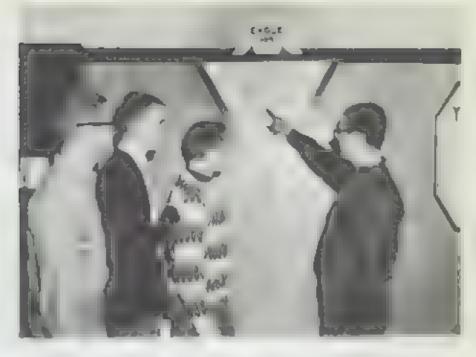

These activities, under the supervision of Mr. Richards, give the boys the advantages to excell beyond the opportunities of classroom knowledge and become acquainted with the world in which they will soon live and work

Eagle Hi- V

The boys in Eagle Hi-Y participate in many activities in which they can grasp the knowledge that can't be found in a text book, gain experience which broadens their abilities, and chances for success

The boys hold various joint conferences in which they meet with members of all the Hi-Ys and Y-Teens to discuss the business of their organizations. Each year two representatives are sent to the annual Hi-Y convention in Ann Arbor, and in November, representatives are also sent from Eagle to participate in the United Nations Program. As do other Hi-Ys, Eagle sends their annual food basket to a needy family

These and other activities, under the guidance of Mr. Hulter, tend to add new dimensions to the boys' personalities while widening their sphere and scope of knowledge.

President, Daug Barrett, points out the new calendar for Eagle's future activities

Lancer Hi- Y

Lancer Hi-Y members broadened their experiences this year at a camp-out and by sending two members to New York as delegates on the United Nations trip. Other social activities included a football game and a hayride. Two of their fund-raising projects were a doughnut sale and "Swiss Holiday," a dance co-sponsored with the Student Council, Participation in Lancer gives the student a deep feeling of belonging to Cooley.

Lancer, under the guidance of Mr. Stellberger, their sponsor, also arranged a showcase and gave a food basket to a needy family. These experiences, achieved by the combined efforts of each individual, heighten their understanding, broaden their field of knowledge, and gave deeper meaning to the life of each boy.

Lincoln Hi- Y

Throughout each year the members of Lincoln Hi-Y plan and participate in a wide variety of activities which are designed to broaden and deepen their interest in the community as well as to act as a means of fellowship among the individual members.

In order to add depth to its financial system, Lincoln's boys have worked hard on their fund raising projects. In February, they co-sponsored a dance with Eagle Hi-Y called "Be Mine". Under the direction of their sponsor, Mr. Courville, the members endeavor throughout the year to make their Hi-Y and its activities successful, deeply meaningful experiences

Cooley Y-Jeens

Cooley Y-Teens not only have fun and recreation as a part of their schedule but also worldwide service to others and inter-school fellowship to balance their program. This year they presented the annual Thanksgiving service, gave a Thanksgiving basket to a needy family, and personally contributed to World Fellowship through the YWCA. They made and sold sixty dozen cookies for a booth at the international World Festival held at the YWCA and held the traditional Easter service. Strictly for fun (and profit) the Y-Teens staged their turnabout dance, "Witches Walk". This dance has always been a perennial favorite and this year was no exception. The Easter service, held in Calvary EUB Church, is always impressive and moving. The candlelighting, the special music, the purposes and goals of the Y-Teens, together with the tea afterwards, make it a memorable service. This year Cooley Y-Teens also participated in the inter-school membership service at the YWCA. A speaking chair and individual candlelighting, followed by a tea for the girls and their mothers, helped students from different schools to know and understand one another. Through these various activities, Cooley Y-Teens gave this year's program an added breadth and depth.

Editors-in-Chief

From September until June, the Castellan staff works to produce a record of the present year not only for seniors but for the faculty and total student body.

The Castellan's pictorial diary offers a stimulant for memoriesin all areas: in relearning, in reliving, and in experiencing the actions and thoughts of that year.

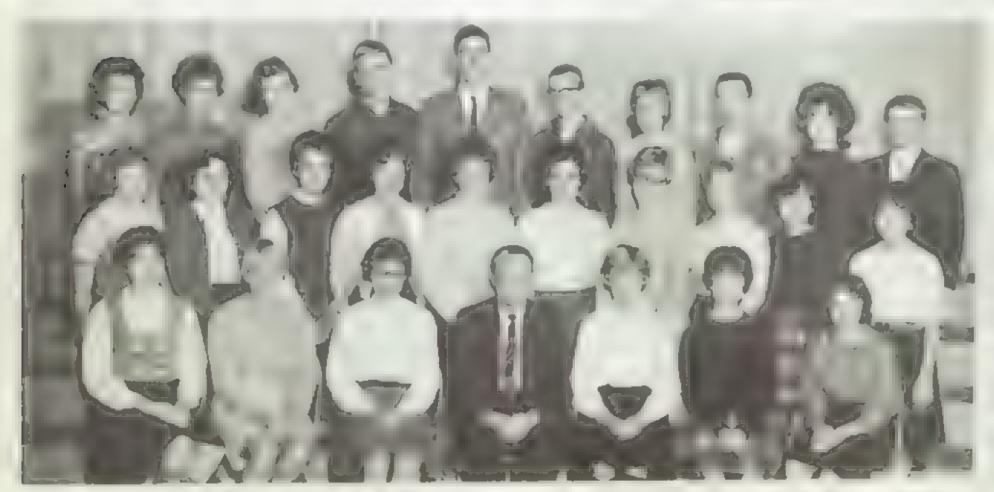

Sacrificing their time to serve our school, the staff spends many after school hours busily preparing paste-ups and assembling the book. If they are not in their office, they can likely be found selling advertisements in the neighborhood or distributing the finished book

Their rewards came when such organizations as the Columbia Scholastic Press Association honored the Castellan with first place awards, or when noted persons, such as Super-intendent of Public Schools, Samuel M. Brownell, congratulated the staff on these awards.

The editors, Cadine Nicholson and Don Pohlod, under the supervision of Mr. Charles Aneda, have provided guidance and leadership for this pictorial memory of the 1961-1962 school year. Their aim — to continually improve our yearbook.

The Cardinal

Editors-in-Chief

While every school newspaper staff tries to make its paper one of the best published, few achieve their goal. The Cardinal staff, though, has taken and met this challenge successfully.

Every three weeks, the Cardinal staff takes it upon itself to broaden the student's knowledge by informing him of such things as coming dances, concerts, card-markings, and achievements of his fellow students, both scholastically and physically. In order to round out this information, the staff provides cartoons, editorials, movie reviews, and columns.

All the functions which are necessary to the life of the Cardinal are performed by its staff. The responsibility of success or failure lies on the staff's shoulders.

The staff has borne these responsibilities very well since last, under the direction of Mr. Chapin, it gained the Medalist Award. This year the staff, under Mr. Pollack, plans to equal last year's honor.

The Cardinal has provided a well-traveled roadway between the student body, the activities in which they part cipate, and the administration.

The Juture Jeachers

By tutoring others, and serving as cadet teachers at grade schools in the community, Future Teachers broaden their sphere of learning by working with other people.

The club also has an Induction Tea, Senior Farewell, and Thanksgiving basket. Through these activities and many others carried out by the club, the members deepen their friendships with others who have also decided on a career in teaching

When the activities are ended and their codet teaching days are over, Cooley's Future Teachers will have already begun adding heighth to their future careers in teaching.

Future Nurses Club

A deeper sympathy and understanding of people in distress is gained by membership in the Future Nurses Club. Working at Veteran's Memorial Hospital as volunteers, members get to see how hospital life really is, not only from looking from the outside, but working on the inside as well

Participation in open houses held at various hospitals in the Detroit area also give the girls a broader outlook on nursing as a career. Speakers from nursing schools and Wayne State University school of nursing, present the true facts of being a nurse to club members throughout the school year

The club also has an Induction Tea, and Senior Farewell, along with a Thanksgiving Basket danated to help a needy family

Members of the Future Nurses Club have set a high goal for themselves, which they hope to fulfill in the future as nurses.

See and Hear

Since September of 1946, the See and Hear Club has given audiovisual aid to Coaley and her students.

The members gain experiences which give them a depth in living and which aid in heightening their learning achievements.

This club, which has grown from nine to 70 members in 15 years, specializes in showing movies to classes. However, by using record players, tape recorders, and opaque projectors, the members promote an even better understanding as an aid in bringing the high goals of learning closer to the students.

The See and Hear Club also promotes its cause by buying movie screens, projectors, and other audio-visual equipment from funds received from the annual magazine sale.

Membership does not bring all work and no play however. This club has many social events every year. Some of these are the treasure hunt, a Christmas dinner which is attended by former members as well as current ones, a toboggan party, a picnic, and either a snow or a swim party.

This group, which has achieved academic heights, devote their time to bring the world through pictures to the classroom.

A well rounded high school student should achieve heights academically as well as socially. The Human Relations Club encourages and promotes a better understanding among Cooley students and people throughout the world today.

The purpose of this club is to develop a worm friendly relationship between people through the use of lectures, field trips, and social outings.

With their sponsor, Mr. Richards, the club has participated in several workshops and lectures dealing with such topics as the meaning of human relations, religion, education, and dating. Also included in their schedule of activities are hayrides, picnics, and field trips. The club has attended the Carnival of Flanders and has made a trip to the Lafayette Clinic.

The activities of the Human Relations Club has helped to broaden the social life of the members and has helped them to associate with people from different environments. Human Relations

Cooley students are broadening their academic horizons in physics, chemistry, physiology, biology and earth science by participating in the Science Club sponsored by Mr. Waipa. Students interested in science and a future career in that field are eligible for membership.

Under the supervision of their able sponsor, this organization offers many opportunities to future scientists for sharing ideas, developing similar interests, and obtaining experience in addition to the standard classroom work.

The Sports Council

Promoting better sportsmanship among the student body and faculty members is the main function of Coaley's Sports Cauncil. They strive to keep the morale of the Coaley tes up whether the teams are high on the ladder of winning or not.

To be eligible for membership into the organization one must be an officer of a club or an othletic team. This is to insure that good scholastic, citizenship, and leadership qualities are maintained to set examples for the rest of the school

Our council is a branch of the National Sports Council which has an affiliation in all the inter-metropolitan Detroit high schools.

Meeting twice a month on Mondays, the Sportsmanship Council has a busy and broad agenda. Among their varied activities this year were a fall drop-in, "Mystery Madness", a fall sports assembly, pep rallies, car parades to the away games, student exchange programs with other league schools, Christmas caroling topogram party, and a newly initiated student project financed by the profits from the drop-ins.

With so much emphasis being placed on promoting and strengthening good sportsmanship actions, our council here at Cooley has an important and sometimes a rather difficult job to keep up.

G.A.A.

The Girl's Athletic Association is a school club organized for girls who have a deep interest in sports. The purpose of this organization is for those girls who have this common interest to get together bimonthly and plan activities centered around sports. Their vitality and pep is a real boost to the students in opening up the wide doors to good sports. manship.

Membership into the organization is open to all girls at Cooley who have earned their varsity or reserve letter on one of the teams. After each sport season of swimming, hockey, basketball, or tennis, invitations to join G.A.A. are sent out to all the girls on the teams who have met these qualifications.

G.A.A. helps its members as well as other students at Cooley to realize the importance of good physical exercise in sports. It is important for everyone to keep physically alert as well as mentally awake to better apprehend the challenges of the future.

Orchestra

Under the direction of Mr. Shafe, the Concert Orchestra has brought much praise to Cooley. As we I as playing at the annual Christmas and Spring concerts, they participate at many outside activities.

In addition to simply making music, the orchestra also holds many events for its members. Picnics and movie trips are among such autside activities.

Cooley High School students can certainly be proud of their music making achievements and of their fine archestra. They are certainly something to be commended and appreciated.

A.J.S.

Although Cooley has sent AFS representatives abroad since 1955 and has been Kost to foreign students since 1954, the student chapter of the American Field Service Club was not formed until a year ago. Already the club has a large active membership. It is a service club designed to help the foreign students become acquainted with the United States and to keep in touch with the Cooley students abroad By acquainting the exchange students with the everyday occurences at Cooley, the club helps to show the students the breadth in living and the depth in locating. The sports events they attend, the movies they see, the clubs and teams they join give the exchange students a wellrounded picture of American teenagers. In September the adult AFS had a dinner for both the adult and student clubs at which they introduced this year's exchange students. Ursula Eichenlaub from Germany and John Elerston from Norway Not only does the Cooley club help its own exchange students, but many of their activities are planned to include the exchange students from other Detroit schools as well. The AFS social activities are designed to show the exchange students some typical American sights and various important places around Detroit. In conjunction with the exchange students from other schools the AFS Club has gone to Greenfeld Vi lage, the ice follies, and a soccer game. In this first year, the AFS Club has done much to help the exchange students become acquainted with American life.

Air Raid Corps

The Cooley Aid Raid Corps gives a new breadth of life to those members rendering their services to the club. Knowing the importance of this organization, the members approach all problems energetically.

Under the supervision of Mr. Mason Tyler, the club is prepared for any emergency which may arise during school hours. The duties performed by the club include checking rooms, corridors, stairways and basement passageways and keeping order during air raid drills. The Air Raid Corps adds a new breadth of life to the training and experience of the members.

In the event of an actual emergency, this club would work with the Civil Defense to help in any possible way.

Cooley's Air Raid Corps is a worthy organization in which to attain new breadth in life
